Sow at the rate of six pounds per acre when sown alone, half the quantity when sown with other grasses. Pound, 35 cents; 100 pounds, market price.

ALFALFA (Medicago sativa).

Alfalfa, also known as Lucern and Chili Clover, is one of the most valuable forage plants, yielding a prodigious amount of feed, which is relished by all kinds of stock, and is very nutritious. It should be cut before coming into bloom. The hay is especially valuable for dairy cows. As soon as cut it immediately commences to grow; and during the hottest and driest weather, when other grasses are parched and withered, it remains fresh and green, and grows as rapidly as ever. On the lowlands of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers it is not an unusual thing to harvest five or six crops of hay from the same field in one season without irrigation, and the same result is obtained on high, dry land, where irrigation is resorted to. Notwithstanding its great yield, it does not exhaust the soil, but rather improves it, making barren land fertile and productive. It will not succeed on hard, clayey soils. It sends down a strong taproot, and soils suited to this peculiarity of the plant are best adapted to its complete success. Its roots, in seeking moisture, penetrate to incredible depths. It should not be sown where water stands near the surface. Where the taproots can reach moisture, if a good stand be obtained, even though the surface remains dry, a luxuriant growth will be sustained. When well set it will endure severe winters, and has proved itself a valuable and profitable crop in every state in the Union. Experience has demonstrated that in most soils reseeding should be resorted to at intervals of about six years, and in many districts in the cattle region of the southwest fresh seeding every year has proved profitable. Prepare the land by deep plowing and thorough harrowing. Sow from twenty to thirty pounds of seed to the acre, and harrow or brush it in well. Seeding thick will produce fine stalks—a desirable feature either in hay or pasture. The seed should be sown in spring, after danger from freezing the young plant is over, or in the fall, early enough to give it a good stand before frost. Pound, 15 cents. For quantity, write for price.

HOW TO MAKE A HANDSOME LAWN.What Is Most Necessary Is to Have Good Seed and the Ground Thoroughly Worked.

The ground should be thoroughly cleansed of all weed roots before sowing. It should be dug to an equal depth, and trodden, rolled and leveled until a firm, uniform surface is obtained. The selection of proper grass seeds is the important matter, and this requires more than ordinary attention, so that the kinds of grass be suited both to the purpose and soil. It must be remembered that much of the fine appearance of a lawn depends upon regularity in mowing.

For forming new lawns fifty or sixty pounds of seed are required per acre, and for renovation of old lawns half that quantity will give good results.

LAWN FERTILIZER.

Unless thoroughly decomposed, stable manure is not desirable, because of the number of weed seeds contained in it. Our Bone Meal Fertilizer possesses the requisite properties to induce a rapid, luxuriant growth, and should be sown broadcast at the rate of 400 pounds per acre. Price per bag of 100 pounds, $2.00; price per ton, $30.

AROMATIC AND SWEET HERBS.

No garden is complete without a few herbs, for culinary or medicinal purposes, and care should be taken to harvest them properly. This should be done on a dry day, just before they come into full bloom, then dried quickly and packed closely, entirely excluded from the air. Sow in spring in shallow drills, one foot apart, and when well up thin out or transplant to a proper distance apart.

A SELECT DESCRIPTIVE LIST

—OF—

Flower Seeds.

REMARKS ON THE CULTIVATION OF FLOWERS.

The soil best adapted to most flowers is light, rich loam, containing enough sand to make it porous. Fill shallow boxes with the bottom boards so put on as to allow free escape of moisture. These boxes are filled with finely sifted soil. This surface is then made perfectly level, and the seeds sown on it as evenly as possible and in thickness corresponding to the variety sown, though it must be here remembered that in "union there is strength." If sown too thin, small weak seeds may fail to press up the soil. Before the seeds are covered, they are pressed down by a smooth board. Cover the seeds with a light loam to which a little moss or dry leaves have been sifted together. Be careful not to keep them too wet. As soon as they are large enough to handle, transplant into boxes from one to two inches apart, where they are to remain until time to transplant to permanent beds.

Just a simple posy brings of hope a ray;
Oftentimes a rosebud, care will drive away.
Dainty little creatures of the sun and dew,
Oh! the love we cherish in our hearts for you.

The following abbreviations occur in the Flower Seed List, viz.:

A for ANNUALS, that grow, bloom, and die the first year from seed.

B for BIENNIALS, that bloom the second year from seed, and then die, though many, if sown early in the spring, will flower the first year.

P for PERENNIALS, that usually bloom the second year from seed, and continue to grow and bloom for many years. Some will also bloom the first year if sown early.

H indicates they are HARDY, and H H, HALF HARDY; T indicates that they are TENDER.

HARDY Annuals, Biennials, and Perennials can be sown in the open ground early in the spring and Biennials and Perennials will not require any protection in winter.

HALF-HARDY Annuals, Biennials, and Perennials can not be sown in the open ground until settled warm weather, though they can be sown in the house if desired early, and afterward transplanted. The two latter need to be protected in the winter, or carried over until spring in cold frames or greenhouses.

H. A.—SWEET PEAS.

As is our usual custom, we again offer this collection with such changes made in it as to bring it up to date, and to maintain our claim that the varieties in this collection are the acknowledged leaders in their respective colors, combining in the highest degree all the qualities of a perfect flower, and were selected after the most critical tests for their apparent superiority for size of flower, purity of color, free flowering and strong-growing qualities. We feel sure that those of our customers who grow this collection will be more than satisfied with the result. The low price at which we offer these should induce liberal planting of these most useful floral favorites.

Culture: The seed should be sown in the fall, or as early as the ground can be worked in the spring to enable the vines to get a good, strong growth before the warm weather comes. Make a trench six inches deep; in this sow the seed and cover two inches deep. As soon as the plants begin to show through, fill in lightly. Do not allow them to suffer for water. As the flowers come into full bloom or fade, they should be cut off, as they will bloom more abundantly.

THE LOGAN BERRY.

Raspberry-blackberry.

This is a seedling from the Auginbaugh blackberry, a wild variety, pistillate, of California, crossed or fertilized by pollen of the Antwerp raspberry. The plants are described as unlike either the raspberry or blackberry, and are of low-growing habit, more like the dewberry, of very large, strong canes or vines, without thorns, but have very fine soft spines like those found on raspberry plants; leaves of dark green color, coarse and thick, more like those of the raspberry than the blackberry. The fruit is as large as the largest-sized blackberry, is of the same shape, with globules similar to that fruit; color when fully ripe, a dark, rich red. It partakes of both the flavors of the raspberry and blackberry, being a combination of the two mixed, a very pleasant, mild, vinous flavor, delightful to the taste, not found in any other fruit, but peculiar to this alone. It is excellent for the table, eaten fresh or cooked, and for jelly or jams without an equal. The fruit is firm and carries well; seed small and few. The vines are enormous bearers. Ripening very early, beginning with strawberries, and the bulk or nearly all ripe and gone before raspberries become plentiful, rendering it a very valuable fruit for market. $1.00 per dozen.
